

ANNOUNCEMENT

THSTI Video Competition 2020 for Undergraduate students

We are now more than four months into a new world where staying alive and healthy supersedes everything else. Doctors, health professionals, scientists are the new gods. Science is the religion getting more believers. Communicating in these times is more important than ever. Communicating the science behind SARS-CoV2, the virus that caused the COVID-19 pandemic, and the disease itself should be done right. Not to forget, it should be engaging.

As a part of its Science Setu initiative, THSTI is sending out this call inviting science communication and video making enthusiasts studying in Undergraduate colleges of India to participate in the THSTI Video Competition 2020. The theme of the videos should be either of the following:

- Science of COVID-19/SARS-CoV-2
- COVID-19 heroes - Scientists, Doctors, other health professionals, frontline health workers
- The Infodemic in the Pandemic

If you are a student of science or a science enthusiast, enrolled in any college in India, you can participate.

Note:

- The video can be recorded using any electronic device available with you. You should make sure the video and sound quality are both good; the content of the video is original.
- You can make the video in the Indian language of your choice. In case you are making the video in a language besides English, do send us the script in a Word Document to socialmedia@thsti.res.in.
- The videos should not be longer than 3 minutes. One participant can submit only one video for evaluation.
